

MORNING APPEAL

Official Paper of Ormsby County

Sunday.....July 3 1887

—The season being so short here, and the ground so perfectly willing to produce big crops, it is proposed to stand the Holstein ranch on edge and plant both sides of it. If the roots of opposite plants don't get together and clinch, the experiment will prove a success.

—Wednesday evening the moulders at the Redding foundry upset a pot of metal in casting. Banks, the proprietor, was severely burnt, and some of the laborers injured. The shop took fire, but it was extinguished without serious results.

A good deal of our Carson money is drifting toward New Orleans to pay for lottery coupons. About $1,600 went that way last month.

THE SUSPENSE IN VIRGINIA

A FEELING THAT THE END IS NEAR.

Speculations Regarding the Condition of the Men.

Yesterday morning those who rose at daylight and crowded to the head of Union street confidently expected to hear that the connection had been made during the night. But the men who staggered out of the works from the 7 o'clock shift had but to report, "no connection."

HOPEFUL INDICATIONS.

At 9 o'clock Friday morning a blast was fired loaded with 91 giant cartridges and when the men went to the head of the winze no smoke was seen. This was regarded as a certain sign that the blast had blown a hole through at the crosscut, but when they descended to the bottom of the winze they found that there was still no connection and only about half the cartridges exploded.

The absence of smoke was accounted for by Mr. Patton as indicating a crevice through which the smoke had blown. A crevice capable of stowing away so much smoke must be very large. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning another round of blasts were fired and the report was a welcome sound to the miners, whereas all previous blasts had given out a sharp quick report, this one had a muffled sound indicating a thin wall between the relief drift and Curry cross cut. Therock unusually elastic in character had given before the blast.

WHERE THEY ARE.

There is some discussion now as to whether the men are in No. 1 crosscut East or No. 1 crosscut West. Patton locates them in the East, but Dan DeQuille thinks they would have been likely to choose the West crosscut, where they could have had both a blower and compressed air pipe to either air from. If the men are located in either place and bulkheaded, the dead bodies by this time must have swollen and burst, and the stench would be horrible.

DeQuille thinks that the bodies must be where they fell, as the living would not have the strength to put them outside the bulkhead.

The men who break through the wall will have a dreadful piece of work before them in removing the bodies. The place will have to be ventilated and fumigated for hours before the bodies can be taken out.

The general impression at the present writing is that the end is near, and as the day wears on the feeling of anxiety on the Comstock increases, and all hope that the suspense will soon be over.

The subscription for the relief of the miners' families will reach the neighborhood of $27,000.

The Educated Indian.

General Armstrong, of the Hampton, Va., Institute, says about 225 Indian graduates have been sent back to the Indian country and they have become teachers, farmers, mechanics and clerks. Most of them are fickle and do not succeed in life. The educated Indian has this great advantage: All his indigent kin crowd around him to be cared for. Self esteem is a prominent Indian trait. An earthquake can not shake the respect an Indian has for himself. Nothing can lower it and nothing can raise it. An Indian maiden would not feel complimented by attention from a white man any more than would be the case with a Caucasian belle. In any presence the red man is content to know that he is an Indian and his calm self-respect is never disturbed.—Salt Lake Democrat.

A Mule with a Silver Throat.

A mule with a silver throat is the latest thing in mules in Macon. A valuable animal at Holman's stables was afflicted with a disease similar to laryngitis. W. C. Timberlake proposed to doctor him. He did so and saved the mule's life. Finding that it would soon be impossible for the animal to breathe through his windpipe, a portion of the pipe was inserted, and now the mule breathes freely. It was a delicate and skillful operation. It now remains to be seen whether the mule can winny his thanks to Mr. Timberlake for saving his life.

Sixty Skeletons.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The Times' Nashville, Tenn., special says: For seventy-five years the road within three miles of Cookeville, leading from Louisville, Ky., through the State down into Georgia and South Carolina, was known as the Kentucky stockroad, and was at that time the principal highway for traders between two sections.

Traders were frequently missing very mysteriously, no trace of them ever being found. Yesterday in a recently discovered cave the skeletons of sixty persons were found. The men had evidently been murdered and their bodies concealed in the cave.

Field's Losses.

NEW YORK July 1.—There are all sorts of rumors about Cyrus W. Field. Some say that he has lost everything, even his home, while Murray, President of Field's United States National Bank, claims that he still has a surplus of $3,000,000. Field himself says that he will make a statement over his own signature. Russel Sage says that it was Gould that saved Field from ruin and Wall street from a panic.

Pygmalion and I.

Happy Pygmalion gained of old a wife,
Warmed by his love from marble into life.
But I a sadder miracle have known:—
My love has changed a living maid to stone.

—Overland for July.

Hanged.

LOUISVILLE, July 2.—Albert Turner, colored, one of the murderers of Jennie Bowman, was hanged yesterday morning. From the gallows Turner said: "I am going to die with an honest heart, and will bring no one to the gallows. Free Patterson, he was not with me. I am willing to die now."

Wanted.

A competent young woman wants a situation to do general housework. A small family preferred. For information apply to P. S. Corbett. 1w

—Francis Patterson of Elmira, N. Y., better known as "Blind Patterson," who recently obtained notoriety as the recipient of the largest pension ever granted a private soldier in the United States, and which was discovered afterward, had been fraudulently obtained, has been arrested in Gordonville, Virginia. He had $1,600 in money on his person, and this, together with the money already regained makes $12,850 which has been received by this Government, of $13,250 paid out on account of Patterson's pension.

—Yesterday a Washoe Valley farmer had a valuable horse bitten by a rattlesnake, not far from the Harris mine. The animal trod upon the reptile, which bit him on the fetlock joint. The limb began to swell at once, and became of great size. Notwithstanding ammonia and whiskey was administered without stint, the horse died in a few hours, but it is not exactly understood what killed him—the whisky or snake-poison.

—Help out the baseball clubs today. The game between the Resolutes and Amateurs ought to attract a large crowd. Many will come from Virginia.
